

Digger

In 2147 Pollution the atmosphere making the surface uninhabitable 16 years before its destruction we dug underground and created a machine called the dweller it was able to create its own oxygen supply allowing us to live underground. We also had enough rations to last 1000 years as well as a healthy amount of water from the lake. There were times that we thought about just ending it in Earth 24, or so they say. This is how we lived for 94 years. The year after the collapse was known as Earth 1. I was born on Earth 79. I'm not sure of the day, but hath would make me around 15 years old for 15 years all I've ever seen has been dirt and dust here were light, but never much it came from a crank generator.

We took turns cranking it for around 5 hours a day, so the other 15 was pure darkness. We learned to adapt to it by making sounds to find our way. This life was what we knew it was our life, but I wanted to, grandfather was 10 when he went underground. He was the oldest and you elder, but we all just called him grandfather. He would tell us stories about the sky and the warmth of the sun. We would sneak into his room when he was at a meeting to look at the pictures he had drawn on the walls; they were always so amazing. I wanted to see the sky and feel the warmth of the sun, and I wasn't alone. Four of my friends Lillian, James, Rancy, and viola we all had the same dream. We were 100ft. Below the surface grandfather told us last year. Viola and I had started digging toward the surface, but we gave up half way thinking we'd never make it but last month with the help of Lillian, James, and Rancy we dug out another 20 feet bring us closer to the surface.
